Unit 9

One More Tune

Children at Janmashtami Festival,
United Kingdom

Listen and sing.

 TRACK: C9.1

Just One Tune

Kids can make all kinds of things,
Pretty things, funny things.
Kids can draw and dance and sing.
They are artists!

We can draw a kangaroo
Or a mule with one shoe.
We can draw a cute cartoon.
We are artists!

We can play a tune or two
On a flute, on a tube.
We can drum upon a cube.
We are artists!

Tune: "London Bridge Is Falling Down"
